

AUTUMN TRACK, OIL, 6 X 8.

Bill Gallen

“Painting for me is a world where, time after time, the ripeness and richness of life is revealed in the simplest of expressions. A path through barren autumn scrub is material enough for a painting. Translating the thrill of seeing—and responding in paint language—is the ways and means of our craft. I intentionally restrained color and detail in AUTUMN TRACK to enliven the natural rhythms and gesture of the path. One note of pure color in the distant hills is heightened in contrast to the tonal quiet in the balance of the painting. No grand vista is needed to discover a sacred world; one lies before us already.”
